though her look still whispers yes, Her lips still ut--ter "No!".....
Why should she blush so when we meet, If I'm not near her heart! Her ti---ny hand why trem--ble When we un--der-take to part! I won-der if she loves me, I'd give the world to know, For 2

I wonder if she loves me?
Last night we were alone,
And I thought there was a coldness
Unusual in her tone;
Yes, toying with her curls, I stole
Oh! such a kiss! and though
She did not kiss me in return,
She did not bid me go!
I wonder if &c.

3

I wonder if she loves me?
To wake her woman's pride,
I feigned to love another once—
She never spoke nor sighed;
Still, tho' she seemed emotionless,
I watched her blue eye well,
And I'm certain that a tear-drop
From its silken lashes fell.
I wonder if &c.

4

I wonder if she loves me?
I'm sure I can't decide,
For sometimes she's all tenderness,
And sometimes she's all pride;
In vain I question of my hopes,
My fears still weigh them down,
Since e'en her sweetest, sunniest smile
Is featured by a frown.
I wonder &c.
